ENSPL's Leadership at Pune Seed Congress by National Seed Association of India): Cultivating Collaboration and Innovation in Agriculture

Mr Kishor Veer, the Managing Director of ENSPL, took pride in co-sponsoring the annual Pune Seed Congress, a premier gathering that attracted over 450 delegates from India and abroad. This noteworthy event featured an exclusive CEO conclave, where Mr Veer actively engaged in discussions with counterparts from various companies, addressing key issues affecting the agricultural sector and focusing on the seed industry.

Throughout the congress, attendees delved into pertinent topics such as the agricultural landscape and specific challenges within the seed industry. Valuable insights were exchanged, fostering collaborative ideas and partnerships between Indian and overseas industry leaders. Additionally, technical sessions led by experts and scientists from top-tier agricultural research institutions enriched the discourse, with interactive question-and-answer sessions enhancing understanding for all participants.

One significant congress outcome was the stakeholder recommendation for a unified licensing system, coined "one country, one license." Draft recommendations were meticulously compiled and submitted to relevant government agencies for review and potential implementation.

Furthermore, fruitful discussions revolved around delineating mutually beneficial tasks between companies, accompanied by defined time frames. This collaborative approach not only strengthens the seed industry but also drives growth across allied sectors, ultimately contributing to India's economic prosperity on a global scale. The annual Pune Seed Congress is a pivotal platform for advancing agricultural innovations and fostering sustainable growth in the sector.

Mr Y.D. Deshpande and Mr Ulavesh Patil, alongside management, actively supported the organization's objectives during the seed congress, emphasizing ENSPL's commitment to driving positive change in the agricultural landscape.
